

Dydd Mawrth 21 Mai.

Quickly, Quickly, Wesley and Tia pounded nervously to the Supermarket car-park. Startled, they looked up and saw the biggest tower of doom they had ever seen, however, this was a Supermarket. They hurried to the door and wondered how would they get in and get Tank out?

As they both were located in front of the terrifying tortcherus revolving door that spun, like a washing machine on a quick wash, their curiosity grew stronger and stronger. They knew that they had to get in and just when they were going to run through a cat officer came out of the break room. The cat picked up a bone and threw it through the revolving door and Wesley and Tia chased the delicious friendly enemy round and round and round the door they both knew that they must get in this beast no matter what. It was now or never!

With one massive effort Wesley and Tia stopped with all their might the door stopped and the bone rolled into the Supermarket. Finally they were inside they looked around in surprise! There were magical moving marvelous tables, fearful frozen ice cupboards heavenly heroic human teleporters, hopeful happy humans in food excitement and a display of crusty weapons, there were pie crusts and garden forks, the garden forks gleamed in the sun like one million diamonds, the pie crusts crumbled when you touched them, like old crusty stones. and lots more. It was like the queen's palace, food in almost every part of this exciting maze. They looked around for Tank. Would they find Tank in this place of mystery?

Unexpectedly they saw packets of their favorite treats, a shiny tin of dog food it shined like stars on a warm summer night, squicey toys and bones. Just when they were about to get a bone to take home they saw an open bag of dog food with a tale and Tank appeared out of the bag. All of a sudden two men came out of the blue; they were wearing black suits Tia and Wesley hid. Heart bracking wildly, body shaking badly, they froze...

... Wesley and Tia were worried, they didn't now if they could save Tank and get him out of the Supermarket. They had been there all night and it was now Sunday, they tired so they didn't know how to save Tank, then all of a sudden Wesley had an idea they came out from behind the stacks of dog food and Wesley charged at one of the men Tia charged swiftly strongly Sweepaly at the other man.

Ammediatly they decided to get out but getting out wasn't as hard as getting in because more people were going out, so they hitched a ride with one of the humans but Tank was going to charge rite through the door.

After that Tanks heart was full of sorrow. Luckily they were able to exit this tower of doom without being cout by the humans. As they exscapet this maze of food and into the sun, Tank started to swet with sorrow, like a camol on a warm Egypt Summer day. Tank started to berst out in tiers and apoligiesd unexpectily for risking their lives. Wesley boomed at his cousions dreadful mistake. But Wesley and Tia were Sympathetic of their cousion Tank and they new that it wouldn't be the last time Tank would tell a lie. They new it wouldn't be the last time he would do somethink so stupid and would he stop playing wars with the birds?